Songs of Stompin Tom

Thursday, October 17, 2019 North & South routes

Destination: Brantford

Sing along to this tribute. One of the most iconic figures in Canadian music, Stompin' Tom Connors was a working-class, salt-of-the-earth troubadour and perhaps the most overtly nationalist songwriter Canada has ever produced. His traditional country songs about Canadian people and places — such as Bud the Spud, Sudbury Saturday Night and Big Joe Mufferaw - were humorous, patriotic and widely popular, and reflected his extensive travels throughout the country. He was a passionate activist for Canadian music and culture, going so far as to return six Juno Awards in protest of what he saw as the organization's favouring of expatriate Canadians over those with only domestic success. He received Lifetime Achievement Awards from the East Coast Music Awards, the Toronto Musician's Union and SOCAN. He was made an Officer of the Order of Canada and inducted into Canada's Walk of Fame.
